

MEDICAL EDUCATION

SCVS
FELLOWS
WORKSHOP

SUNDAY, MARCH 18, 2018
LAS VEGAS, NV

FACULTY

JEFFREY JIM, MD

APOSTOLOS
TASSIOPOULOS, MD

This ½ day course is for fellows & residents looking to increase their skill and knowledge in treating hostile necks in EVAR.

PROGRAM HIGHLIGHTS

- Overview of the Heli-FX™ EndoAnchor™ System & Endurant™ Stent Graft System
- Standard and advanced applications
- Heli-FX™ EndoAnchor™ System case discussion

Medtronic
Further. Together

MEDICAL EDUCATION

FELLOWS WORKSHOP

Academia

COURSE OBJECTIVES:

- Define the hostile neck and identify those at higher risk for long-term failure
- Recall strategies and apply different techniques to prevent and treat EVAR complications resulting from a hostile neck
- Apply knowledge to properly deploy the stent graft & endoanchors consistent with the product IFU
- Discuss preventing and troubleshooting for intraoperative and postoperative endoleak management

SUNDAY, MARCH 18, 2018
LAS VEGAS, NV

AGENDA

8:30 AM	BREAKFAST
9:00 AM	Welcome & Introductions
9:15 AM	Classroom discussion topics
10:00 AM	Simulation & Hands-on Rotations
11:30 AM	Panel Discussion & Closing

Limited space, please RSVP

Lori Kruper, Medtronic Fellows Program Manager
Email: lori.kruper@medtronic.com Cell: 312.909.4992

This course is restricted to physicians and teams trained in interventional vascular techniques treating patient populations described in the Instructions for Use for Medtronic Endovascular Therapies products.

The purpose of this course is to train you on the safe and effective use of Medtronic products, consistent with FDA labeling. Medtronic product Instructions for Use and on-label product information can be found at http://manuals.medtronic.com/manuals/main/us/en_US/home.

As a medical device manufacturer, Medtronic does not provide credentials or certify your professional medical skills and/or your ability to provide appropriate medical care to patients for whom you intend to use a Medtronic medical device.

By participating in this event, participants acknowledge that Medtronic will be providing reasonable value in the form of, for example, flights, transportation, food & beverage, lodging, and educational items, associated with this event. Participants further acknowledge that this value will be disclosed in accordance with

